The emotitats and sequin thingy have both been on my mind off and on, so I finally took care of that, two birds with one stone style. If I did it over again, I would switch the color scheme, since the blue doesn't show up well on the sequin, and I would find some smaller beads. The triple bead picot looks very crowded. If smaller beads don't help enough, perhaps the chain should be lengthened to move those beads a little further away from the beads on the adjacent chains.
